STATE INCOME TAX

Good as Any—Fairer than Most

Maine voters will cast their ballots next Tuesday in a special referendum election.

By far the most important question on the ballot is the one concerning repeal of the two-year-old State Income Tax.

Reportedly a large portion of the revenue from this tax is slated for use as State subsidy for public school education. This issue alone should warrant retention of the tax.

Over the past dozen years or so some four score school districts have been formed, as citizens were "sweet talked" by promises of an equitable distribution of state aid in financing their programs. The implementation of the state's share over the years would appear to have the effect of the "rich" districts getting "richer", and the "poor" getting poorer.

A tax based on an ability to pay would seem to be fairer than any addition to the sales tax, or an added burden to the property taxpayer. Another increase to the sales tax or additional increases to the property tax could have the eventual result of eliminating the low and middle income taxpayer.

If the income tax is so evil, where were the members of the Legislature who now oppose it, when they enacted it? Are they now admitting they are without the political acumen to lend their brethren out of the wilderness?

In issues such as this "half truths" abound in both the camps of "pro" and "con", and the voter must make his decision from his own conscience. The temptation is to blame the governor for his high budget, but it is the Legislature that enacts the laws. We find it difficult to believe that a majority of legislators are spendthrifts. If they are that is one reason elections are held on even-numbered years.

We believe that a revision of tax laws by the Legislature is long past due, and that there is waste and inefficiency in government. This is nothing new, only compounded by an inflated economy over which residents of Maine have little or no control.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO COLLECT FOR UNICEF

The young people from our local churches will be out collecting for UNICEF on Halloween from 4 to 6 p. m.

There appears to be no valid reason why we can't retain the income tax, hopefully take some of the burden from the property tax, and have tax reform, too.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

The meeting held Wednesday night pertaining to the disposal of solid waste material was both interesting and informative. It was well attended by municipal officials from the area. There were some interested citizens present. Methods of disposal being used were explained and movies shown to demonstrate the processes. A follow-up meeting on other approaches to the problem will be held Nov. 3 in Norway.

The disposal of our rubbish will soon become a major expense to all communities. The manner in which it is done must meet certain standards which we will have no choice except to conform with. A determination will have to be made as to which of the various methods available is best suited to our needs. Area to be covered and population served are the prime factors in making that determination.

A thorough study of all alternatives must be instituted as 1973 is the deadline on open dump burning. Also all dumps must be 300 feet from any classified waters.

TELSTAR FALLS FROM MVC SUNBIRTH—SHUT OUT

BY LISBON 140

Lisbon High kept alive its hopes for at least a piece of the Mountain Valley Conference title by knocking visiting Telstar out of the unbeaten ranks, 140, last Saturday. Lisbon is now 5-1-1 in conference play, while Telstar has a 5-1-1 record.

The Greyhounds, grinding it out in short periods on power running by Ray Fennel, and quick openers by Karl King and Pete Rovnak, scored in the first and fourth periods to hand Telstar its first shutout.

Ray Fennel scored from ten yards out for the victors first quarter tally and ran in for the two point conversion. Rovnak scored from the five in the fourth stanza. Fennel's attempt for the two-point conversion failed.

Telstar's major threat came in the third period when it moved from Lisbon's 30 to the one yard line, only to lose out through a fumble recovered by Ralph Gamache. Doug Brooks and Al Yorke did most of the lugging for Telstar.

Telstar's aerial game failed to provide balance for its ground game. Pete Marsteller intercepted one of Ron Deegan's passes and most of his other attempts were either overthrown or dropped.

Fourier, Mark Dobranski and Tom Moran were outstanding on defense along with King. Gamache recovered two Telstar fumbles. Offensively Fourier and Moran turned in fine blocking.

Defensive standouts for Telstar were Don Luxton and Tim Rosenberg.

Telstar entertains Winthrop in its final home contest at 1:30 Saturday afternoon.

FORMER GOV. PAYNE OPPOSES REPEAL OF STATE INCOME TAX

Says Business-Like Study of State Government Cost Needed

Frederick G. Payne, Maine's former Governor (1949-53) and only living United States Senator (1953-59), who also served as the State's Commissioner of Finance and Director of the Budget (1940-42), came out strongly against repeal of the income tax in a statement released on Wednesday. During his second term as Governor, Mr. Payne had recommended a combination sales tax income tax. The Legislature that year enacted a sales tax, and it was 18 years later that the income tax was passed.

In his statement Governor Payne emphasized that "a combination sales tax and income tax is the most fair and equitable method of providing General Fund Revenue sources for the operation of Maine State Government."

He coupled his opposition to repeal of the income tax with an endorsement of "a full-scale business-like study and analysis of all phases of State Government operations, designed to bring about economies and reductions where possible in the cost of State Government." In recent years Governor Payne has been a frequent critic of the cost of State Government and has urged more business-like methods in its operations.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Painting the basement floor is less work if you use a roller fastened to a mop handle. No stooping!

Soften small sponges of different soaps in a double boiler and mold into multicolored balls to make lovely guest soaps for display in your bathroom.

Close zippers, snaps, buttons and hooks on all clothes before you machine-wash them. The fasteners will last longer, and won't snag other clothes in the laundry.

A knot in a shoelace—even a wet one—can be untied easily with two large safety pins. Just catch each side of the knot with a pin, then pull firmly apart.

A white fingernail pencil is fine for touching up discolored grouting between tiles in the bathroom. Just moisten it and mark.

— Mrs. Collette Morgan, Cor. —

I have just returned from along a golden trail, only one of many this week.

It is hard to believe that in another week November will be with us. My blue and red sylvia, marigolds, forget-me-nots and petunias are still in bloom.

Today as I turned to the hills at the left about a mile from my home the last of some small, sour apples, hung to a branch afraid to let go, while others were among the grass.

The distant cottages were blind, the fields brown and mysterious with changes.

An old elm wore a scarf of wood-bine which gave it a touch of gaiety.

Part way up the first hill I sat under a big oak and looked to the deep purple of the hills beyond and up to another giant oak at one side. I thought how huge and old it seemed. Then my thoughts shifted to the sequoias which make the oaks small and young indeed. I remembered the sequoia felled in 1932 which pushed up from the forest floor in 700. Its slender, sweeping branches were lofty when Columbus was sailing toward our shores. It had lived through the time of Charlemagne, William the Conqueror, the Declaration of Independence and World War I. What a life! My mind turned again to the oak towering straight and regal, arrayed in its dress of maroon and brown. It was pretty.

I next followed a ravine for some distance then turned right around the base of a ledge. At the end I climbed to the top. Are you with me? The climbing was a bit hard.

The distant mountains were garbed in the latest fashions: glowing yellow and robin's breast rust.

Just at my side as I turned to move on, there stood on a large stump the hollow base of some small bush, an alder perhaps. It wore a coat of lush green moss, white growing from its top were tiny ferns and fungi. I picked up this unique vase not disturbing its bouquet and guarded it carefully on my return trip. It somewhat resembles an oriole's nest as it now occupies its own private corner. I hope it lives through the winter.

As I descended the hill and sat down, the gold fell all around me. The sky had wandering white puffs of clouds and I listened to the great breathing silence around me. Then I realized that the silence was full of tiny sounds, chirps, hummings, and soft stirrings. The squirrel and jay scolded, the cricket tickled, and just ahead a tiny bird went hastily over the leaves while a white throated sparrow huddled to watch. I was curious about the little one and tried to see him better through my glasses. There was a flash of almost red on his crown with black bars, light underneath with stripes and gray above. He moved so fast and was so tiny I never did get acquainted.

By another week end the pretty flowers that welcomed me home will be gone. The black-fronted nightingale will have nibbled the gold from around us and October will have slipped away.

"But like a day well-lived it leaves reflections of its worthy deeds." — Bess Mae Sheets

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Imman, West Paris, were at their camp here several times this week.

In Augusta he received the place of first alternate or third place.

LOW DEER KILL FORECAST

required, the public will be notified immediately through the news media.

The Legislature has given the authority to make such closures to the fish and game commissioner. Closing an area is a step to be taken with greatest reluctance but with firmness if the deer population becomes threatened by too much hunting pressure.

Wardens will report deer registrations from all tagging stations each Monday to the Department in Augusta. It appears that the kill is running too high in any section of the state, a decision on closing will have to be made at once, Deputy Commissioner Maynard F. Marsh said that though difficult, "it would be better to bear with a short period of no hunting in part of the state than to risk harm to the breeding stock." He pointed out that deer can replenish their numbers in a fairly short time if the breeding needs of the population does not get too small.

GOULD SENIOR RECEIVES MERIT SCHOLARSHIP COMMENDATION LETTER

A letter of commendation honoring her for her high performance on the 1971 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQT) has been awarded to Nancy Smith, senior at Gould Academy. Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Smith of Old Orchard Beach, is in her fourth year at Gould.

She is among 35,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two per cent of those who are expected to graduate from high school in 1972. The commendation students rank just below the 15,000 semesters announced in September by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

Edward C. Smith, president of NMSC, said: "Although commendation students advance no further in the Merit Scholarship competition, their standing in this nationwide program deserves public recognition. Their high performance on the NMQT gives promise of continued success in college."

"The commendation students should be encouraged to pursue their education since their intellectual talent represents an important and much needed natural resource. Such students and our nation will benefit from their continuing educational development."

101 FOREIGN STUDENTS AT THREE U.M. CAMPUSES

A total of 103 foreign students from 32 different nations are listed as students at the Oxford, Bangor and Waterville campuses of the University of Maine this fall. The country with the most exports to UM is Canada with 35 students attending, while India has 14, China has nine, Hong Kong has six and Colombia and Sweden each have four.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Bethel, Maine, Oct. 23, 1971
Dear Editor:

On November second, Maine voters will have a chance to go to the polls to vote on repeal of the State Income Tax. Loss of this tax would be a serious blow to the State's economy. Opponents of the tax have charged supporters with "brainwashing" and "scare tactics," but if these people think that the Income Tax can be repealed without having another tax to take its place, I am sure they are in for a rude awakening.

The Income Tax yields over thirty million dollars per year. Loss of this amount could only mean an increase in the Sales Tax, the removal of some exemptions, increased local property taxes or other new taxes. Repeal of the Income Tax without an increased Sales Tax could only mean the loss of thousands of dollars annually in State subsidies to municipalities, which would mean an increase in local property taxes. This could run from 20% to 30% increase in local taxes.

Mr. Lamb, who has headed the drive to repeal the Income Tax, has talked of cuts in State spending, but has failed to say where or how these cuts could be made. The people demand services such as highways, schools, etc., and the people must pay for them. If not with an Income Tax, then by some other tax. An increase in the Sales Tax would hurt the elderly, the retired and the low income worker much more than the income tax.

Unless you want an increase in the Sales Tax, with possibly the removal of some present exemptions, and/or increased local taxes, I urge you to go to the polls on November second and vote NO on repeal.

Sincerely,
Roger E. Hanson,
Chairman of Selectmen
Newry, Maine

Editor, Sir:
Perhaps you will be good enough to open your editorial column to the Open Letter to the President.

Thank you.
Bronislawa Y. Noyl
October 26, 1971

Open Letter to the President of the United States The Honorable Richard Milhous Nixon, Mr. President:

You have proved to us that you will not tolerate anarchy! Yet there are indications which behave as if our democracy were just that! And worse: they exercise power without responsibility, which could be translated as tyranny!

Here is a case of the Central Maine Power Company, Bridgton, Maine, who have invaded my property not only without my permission, but without a warrant, without an announcement of their intentions.

They have felled down completely the beautiful young birches for which I acquired the property; they have felled a huge pine on the other side of the road where there are no wires at all.

Mr. Nelson, the District Manager maintains, for the second time, that they had to do the "trimming" in order to ensure service to their customers.

Whether to serve their customers or whether to serve their gods. No one has a right to invade someone else's property on his own judgment. There is an age-old Law.

But I beg the question, as it is a matter closely related to the above for which, however, no law exists as yet. Is the destruction of the trees necessary? Absolutely not. There are wires all over the world. There is hardly a town in other countries which does not have tree-lined streets. The wires go through the trees and they get along beautifully together. Nowhere can one see such mutilated crippled trees as in our towns—the work of the Power Companies. No other country can afford those expensive tree-felling gadgets; and so no one conceived the idea of lopping off powerful limbs because a leaf is tangent to a wire one-eighth of an inch thick.

The Power Company commissions so-called tree-specialists—alias tree butchers—who submit bills per number of trees destroyed—the more the better!

With greatest respect, Mr. President, this is submitted as an Open Letter because many people seem to have been intimidated by these huge corporations, and have been accepting their abuses for generations. The your vigorous intervention in this one concrete case will create a precedent which will save the most precious element in our environment—the God-given trees.

Most respectfully and sincerely,
Bronislawa Y. Noyl

Telstar Regional High School

October 23, 1971
Dear Sir:

A few days ago I was approached by the coach of the Telstar Varsity basketball team. He informed me that this year's practices would be from 6 to 8 p. m. and I would have to provide my own transportation to practice. Being from Andover, which is situated about 25 miles from Bethel, I didn't think too much of the idea. The reason, according to the coach, for night practice was that it wouldn't be possible to have a full-court practice after school because of other activities that called for the use of the gym. He didn't give me any reason for the lack of district-provided transportation.

Before making too much of a fuss over the whole thing, I decided to find out how some of the other basketball players felt about it. Since most of the players live within 5 or 10 miles of school, their attitude was, "It isn't that bad an idea, and if you want to play basketball badly enough, you'll find some way to get to practice." This was the coach's opinion also.

Of course, night practices are fine for those who live close to school but it will mean travelling about 100 miles a day and getting home about 9 p. m. each school night for me. The gas for 50 of the 100 miles will be paid for by me exclusively. During the season I would probably have to spend between 60 and 70 dollars on gas for an activity that the townships of Andover were assured transportation would be provided for when Andover entered S.A.D. #41.

Two years ago a different coach tried to have night practice without transportation provided by the district. There were three Andover students on the Varsity squad then and all three were members of the starting team. When they complained about the night practice, they received the same reply I did but they came right back with, "If you want us to play badly enough, you'll have practice when we can make it." After one night practice without those three present, the coach changed practice back to the afternoon.

This year's going to take more than a boycott from the Andover players (since I will probably be the only one) to get practice during the afternoon. It will be impractical to get the district-provided transportation, which was guaranteed to us, for the night practices.

If the coach still feels that the Telstar gym would be unavailable right after school for practices and that it would be impractical to send a bus all the way to Andover for just one player, then I have the perfect solution. I'm sure Andover would allow the team to use its gym for practices right after school. If this were to happen, bussing would be justifiable since the whole team would have to be bused. This would be the ideal solution if it weren't for one thing. . . . It has always been thought that it is much easier to force the minority to bend and give in to the majority than vice versa.

Sincerely,
Ross Swain

Dear Editor:

For all that don't know—Every time the American flag is hung out at the Heartstone House of Five Furniture—Fale gets a pick up of new dope. . . . If you don't think so—just ask a pair of "respected citizens"—and if you need a set of works—ask another "respected citizen"—you will be told to go to the Heartstone House also.

I find it strange that more Bethel people shop the Heartstone House this year than last year—it must be because I do more dope.

I find it hard to believe that I could maintain a business and double its size in one year—on dope—don't you know slander is worth a lot of money.

I'll always love Bethel.

TEACHER PROFILE

Miss Sharon Hilbourn
Miss Sharon Hilbourn is the new Kindergarten teacher at the Woodstock Elementary School, Bryant Pond.

She received her B. S. degree in primary education from the Gorham campus of the University of Maine. During her four years at Gorham she belonged to a professional sorority and had contact with many children through the sorority.

In the summer of her sophomore year she worked as a counselor at Camp Waban. This is a camp for retarded and emotionally disturbed children. She enjoyed it immensely working with them.

Another interesting experience for her was in her last year at college when she worked as a nurse's aid at the Maine Medical Center in Portland. She relates that it was a fascinating job and that she gained much in terms of relating with people from this experience.

Miss Hilbourn's future plans include working on a master's degree in counselling. She likes to work with children and enjoys teaching Kindergarten.

She is a skiing enthusiast and is looking forward to taking advantage of the many slopes in the area. Other special interests include hiking and camping. She also sews and reads at every opportunity.

Miss Hilbourn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hilbourn, South Berwick, Maine. She is presently residing in Bryant Pond.

UPTON

Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres. - Ruth Zanelli writes they are back on horse base in Tallahassee. She writes of the family size squirrels as compared to our winter rodents and the various birds there. As yet they have not seen robins. These red-breasted are still a common sight here and perhaps the main group have stopped mid-way and are listening to the weather reports wondering if they should continue south or return to Maine where we've had very few days cool enough to be considered crisp.

I picked a quart of strawberries and raspberries on Sat. Oct. 23.

Sally Duck has been on sick leave from her job at the Balsams. She went to a doctor in Rumford Friday.

More flocks of geese have been sighted by several people. One afternoon a lone goose honked his way low over our roof tops.
